EPA approves extension

City receives 'grace' on sewer application

By GEORGE MALEK

At a meeting Tuesday, it was announced that the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency has granted Washington C.H. an extension of time to complete its application for a federal grant to improve the city's sewage treatment system.

Consulting engineer Charles F. Bird and Council member Mrs. Bertha McCullough stated that a representative of the EPA informed the city that an extension would be granted.

The EPA is awaiting a change in the contract between C. F. Bird and R. J. Bull, Ltd., Worthington, and the city before the offer of a federal grant can be issued.

The usual method of contracting for engineering work has been to pay the firm a percentage of the total cost of the project. However, the EPA has recently requested that all applications for federal grants have a fixed rate of pay for the engineering of the project. Thus, City Council is considering a revision in its 1972 contract with the firm.

Mrs. McCullough said the extension would allow City Council to discuss and vote upon the contract change at each of its next three regular meetings. This would provide sufficient time to act on the measure without terming it an "emergency," she said. She indicated that she would like to see council discontinue its present policy of passing a great number of ordinances as "emergency measures" — especially when they concern matters as important to the citizens as the proposed sewer project.

In an effort to explain the proposed multi-million dollar sewer project to Washington C.H. residents, the Record-Herald will carry a series of articles during October. The articles, to be written by George Malek, will be a summary of the information presented by the city's engineering firm over past months.

If the engineering contract is modified and the EPA offers the grant, City Council would be required to approve a second ordinance accepting the grant before any work on the second phase was undertaken. She and Bird both stated that if City Council decides to turn down the grant, the contract between the city and engineering firm would become void.

The city would be responsible only for the work completed under the first phase, the same work for which it is now obligated.

The announcement came during an informal meeting with 12 area businessmen in the Huntington Bank conference room where the engineer responded to questions concerning the sewer project for more than three hours.

Those who attended the meeting stated that they were concerned residents who appreciated an opportunity to meet with Bird for a more detailed explanation of the proposed project.

The $23.6-million project represents the largest single investment ever considered by the city of Washington C.H.

Council members as well as interested city residents are understandably cautious about proceeding with the project. They desire to have a firm understanding of the proposal before committing themselves to such a huge financial undertaking.

Becoming familiar with the details of the plan is not an easy task, however. The project cost gives an indication of its complexity.

The businessmen had asked Bird to attend the meeting so that they might clarify several aspects of the proposal. Due to limited time, some questions remained unanswered, but in general the group felt Bird's presentation was commendable.

The first phase is a preliminary state and many of the calculations presented by the firm were based on estimates, including a projection of the population of Washington C.H. 25 years from now and anticipated construction costs in 1978-80.

Bird freely admitted he cannot guarantee these figures, but added that the estimates are based on a thorough study of available information to the best of his ability. The engineering profession requires frequent work with such uncertainties, and Bird provided the group with the background information on which the estimates were based.

Through a series of public hearings and presentations to groups, Bird and his associates are attempting to summarize more than two years of engineering work. This is a formidable task, and a detailed explanation of every action, survey, thought, alternative and calculation is not possible.

Those who attended Tuesday's meeting were aware of this, and several stated afterwards that since they were laymen in the field, they have to trust someone. Many had taken it upon themselves to investigate the firm's background and expressed their confidence in the company's reputation.

Those present felt they were in a much better position to evaluate the proposal after having obtained the information presented. They expressed a need for more involvement on the part of the general public and several suggested additional public meetings to air the proposal.

New city manager faces job with enthusiasm, confidence

Although he won't officially assume the position of Washington C.H.'s city manager for a week, George H. Shapter exudes enthusiasm and confidence about the new job.

Shapter, who has an extensive background in city administration, said he will bring to Washington C.H. a philosophy he developed while serving as city manager in Worthington.

"I have a system, and I'll gradually be reverting to things that I have done in the past. If I meet opposition along the way, I'll have to give and take," said the 52-year-old Shapter who served as Worthington's city manager for eight years before embarking on a private business endeavor.

Shapter will not assume the responsibilities as Washington C.H.'s city manager until Oct. 5, two days before City Council's next regular meeting, but he spent Tuesday afternoon getting acquainted with city department heads.

The new city manager met informally Tuesday afternoon in the City Office Building with Police Chief Rodman Scott, Fire Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen, city sewage treatment plant superintendent Orville Dixon, city auditor Jack Stackhouse, city inspector Glenn Tatman and city street superintendent Bill Duncan.

Shapter is expected to have a close working relationship with the Washington C.H. Police Department. "Law enforcement has been a continuing interest for me," said Shapter who served as a police officer in Worthington for four years before leaving the job in 1959 with the rank of lieutenant.

Besides the eight-year tenure as Worthington's city manager, Shapter's experience in city administration included the additional duties of safety director and personnel director. He also served as Worthington's finance director for three years and city service director for one year.

A graduate of Ohio State University, Shapter replaces Dan Wolford in the city manager's post. Wolford, who hailed as the nation's youngest city manager when appointed in 1971, served as chief city administrative officer here for five years. City Council chairman Ralph L. Cook has been serving in the capacity of acting city manager since Wolford's resignation became effective July 11.

Shapter, who will receive $20,000 a year in the city manager's post, said he was somewhat familiar with Washington C.H. due to his affiliation in Shrine Club activities.

He and his wife, Kathleen, plan to relocate in Washington C.H. in the near future.

Bailey sees Hearst defense shaping up

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "They tell me I am going to have to pull a rabbit out of a hat" to defend Patricia Hearst successfully against federal bank robbery charges, says attorney F. Lee Bailey.

But the flamboyant Boston attorney who has defended such clients as Jack Ruby and Capt. Ernest Medina said Tuesday, "That's not my impression. I've never seen anyone pull a rabbit out of a hat to win a case. I don't know how to pull a rabbit out of a hat."

Bailey said it "won't be an insurmountable task" to obtain a fair trial for Miss Hearst and that defending her will not be an impossible job.

He said he did not yet know what the basis of Miss Hearst's defense will be, but "obviously, the state of mind of the defendant will be a big issue in the trial."

Bailey said he wanted to determine whether the 21-year-old newspaper heiress is competent to cooperate in her own defense.

"This involves her ability to communicate," he said.

Two other members of the defense team, Terence Hallinan and John Knutson, said in court papers Tuesday that Miss Hearst was "vacillating in her attitude toward her parents and lawyers" and was impatient during discussions of her legal case.

"She would sometimes sit for several minutes staring straight ahead, ignoring questions that were put to her," they said in a document labeled "a preliminary statement of our concept of Patty Hearst's mental and emotional condition."

The attorneys said Miss Hearst, who underwent four hours of testing by court-appointed psychiatrist Dr. Donald Lunde at Stanford University on Tuesday, may be on the verge of a nervous breakdown and "seemed to have no idea of the gravity of her position."

Bailey said he and U.S. Atty. James L. Browning had agreed not to try to set a trial date yet and that the results of Miss Hearst's psychiatric tests will influence when her trial will begin.

But Bailey he said he could not "put a case together" this year, and he predicted that the trial would not start before 1976.

Bailey met with newsmen after attending a conference with U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter and Browning on ground rules for the psychiatric testing of Miss Hearst. Bailey said he wanted doctors to have full access to her.

Carter appointed three psychiatrists and a psychologist to examine Miss Hearst to see if she is mentally competent to be cross-examined on an affidavit which she signed.

The affidavit said Miss Hearst was brainwashed and tortured by her Symbionese Liberation Army captors and was forced to participate in the robbery of a San Francisco bank on April 15, 1974.

Terrorists slay police in Spain

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Terrorists shot and killed three policemen and gravely injured a fourth in Madrid today a few hours before more than 300,000 Spaniards roared their support for Generalissimo Francisco Franco waving to them from the balcony of the National Palace.

The four coordinated attacks by one or two gunmen on isolated policemen on guard duty signaled bloody defiance of Western Europe's only remaining dictator on the 39th anniversary of Franco's rebellion against democracy at the start of the Spanish civil war.

The shots were fired within 15 minutes of each other and four days to the hour after Franco's firing squads executed five terrorists and set off a torrent of foreign protests.

The attacks occurred on three sides of Madrid, in the northern, eastern and southern parts of the Spanish capital. But there was none in the western part, where the National Palace is located.

One policeman on duty outside a bank in east Madrid was killed instantly. Two others died from their wounds later in the morning.

All the gunmen escaped.

The government declared a holiday for all factories, schools, shops and offices. Youths in cars and on motorbikes toured the capital and other large cities Tuesday night to whip up enthusiasm.

Premier Carlos Arias Navarro appealed to the Spanish people to stand fast behind their 82-year-old leader in defiance of the widespread foreign condemnation of the execution of five terrorists last weekend.

He accused Mexico and other Western nations that condemned the executions of "hypocritical and intolerable" interference in Spanish affairs.

Government officials were stunned and angered by the continuing vehemence of international reaction to the executions, even though some of them admitted the military trials of the terrorists had been concluded entirely too hastily.

These officials said this blunder would not be repeated in the coming trials of 15 Basque nationalists and dozens of Maoists charged with terrorism.

The protests abroad continued but on a lesser scale.

Amnesty International, the private organization which works to improve the lot of political prisoners, charged that at least 250 Basques had been tortured systematically during May, June and July. Washington lawyer Thomas Jones, who led an Amnesty investigation mission to Spain, said the information came from interviews with 45 persons who were tortured, lawyers whose clients were tortured and from witnesses to the tortures.

The anger abroad was cooling, but terrorist action in Spain was certain to continue. Since January 1974, 20 policemen have been killed by terrorists and 14 civilians have died. In addition to the three men killed today, a policeman died Tuesday of wounds suffered in the robbery of $600,000 from a government office in Barcelona Monday. The police blame the robbery on ETA, the Basque underground.

Food prices show fluctuation

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Consumers got a bit of a break at the grocery store during September, an Associated Press marketbasket shows. But higher prices for coffee, butter, eggs and pork wiped out most of the savings on beef and sugar.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

During September, the marketbasket total at the checklist store increased in six cities, up an average of 3.7 per cent, and decreased in seven cities, down an average of 2.6 per cent. Over-all, the bill at the start of October was three-tenths of a per cent more than it was a month earlier.

During both July and August, the marketbasket bill was up at the checklist store in 10 cities and declined in only three, indicating some improvement last month.

The price fluctuations generally reflected changes at the farm and wholesale levels.

At the farm level, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Tuesday that prices paid to farmers rose 3 per cent from Aug. 15 to Sept. 15 after remaining steady the month before. The increase was due mainly to higher prices for milk, beef cattle, eggs, pork and wheat. Frost in Brazil damaged much of the coffee crop that would have been harvested next year. That drove up the cost of coffee beans now available and manufacturers started raising wholesale prices.

The wholesale boosts took a while to filter through to the retail level, however, because many stores offer coffee as a loss leader to get buyers into their outlets. Manufacturers, promotion offers to supermarkets also helped keep prices down for consumers.

During September, however, the price of a one-pound can of coffee went up at the checklist store in eight of the 13 cities surveyed, rising an average of 13 per cent. The biggest increase came in Providence, R.I., where a one-pound can went from $1.28 to $1.59, up 24 per cent. Coffee was unchanged at the checklist store in four cities and was not available in the specified size at the survey store in the 13th city.

Helping offset the increases on coffee and other items were lower prices for beef and sugar.

Sugar prices, which soared to record levels last December, then started declining, had been rising during the summer, reflecting an increase in the price of raw sugar.

Army said nearly ready for women West Pointers

WASHINGTON (AP) — After months of studies, the Army says that about all it needs to prepare West Point for its first women cadets is to change the bathrooms around.

Army officials have hit a snag trying to adapt the plebe's tight-fitting gray uniform for women, but they have given that problem to some outside designers to solve.

Women can apply for the Army, Navy and Air Force academies contingent on President Ford signing a military authorization bill which includes a provision for admitting women into the military universities.

The Army started preparing for women cadets last summer in anticipation they'll be entering the class of 1980 next July 6.

Lt. Col. Thomas P. Garigan, public affairs officer for West Point, describing Tuesday what the Army has done to prepare for its first class of women, said one of the academy's biggest problems was that "we knew darn little about women."

To get an idea of what changes might be necessary in West Point requirements, Garigan said members of the Women's Army Corps and other military women were tested on the pull-up, one of the academy's physical fitness requirements.

The pull-up is like a chin-up only with the palms of the hands facing outward, rather than inward.

Of those tested, only one per cent could do the six pull-ups required by the academy for admission, Garigan said. As a result, West Point might use some of the physical tests used by the WACs.

He also said the biggest problem with women is that they lack sufficient upper body strength, which he said will have to be developed so they can load tank guns or work with heavy equipment parts.

But Garigan said the Army is finding very few problems with bringing women into West Point.

He said women will not be allowed to play football because West Point is a National Collegiate Athletic Association member and the NCAA bans females from the sport. He said they will be kept out of boxing and wrestling because of the possibility of breast injury.

But they can substitute sports like karate or judo for boxing and wrestling. Garigan said. There will be no changes in academic training and few, if any, in combat training.

They will be housed in barracks with male cadets in an arrangement that puts men and women at opposite ends of hallways.

LEWIS E. EVANS

Lewis E. Evans

Lewis E. (Shorty) Evans, 69, of 6399 Jones Road, was pronounced dead on arrival at Fayette Memorial Hospital, at 10:20 p.m. Tuesday.

Born in Fayette County, he had resided near Bloomingburg his entire life. He had been ill for two years, but seriously ill for six months. A retired farmer and Paint Township trustee, Mr. Evans was a member of the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church where he was a past elder, charter member of the Bloomingburg Lions Club, past president of the Fayette County Trustees Association and member of the Fayette County Agriculture Stabilization Committee.

He is survived by his wife, Dora L. Hughes Evans; two daughters, Mrs. Gary (Sandy) Matthews, Rt. 1, Bloomingburg, and Mrs. Beverly Messer of Concord, New Hampshire; six grandchildren; and three sisters, Mrs. Wayne Bloomer of Bloomingburg, Mrs. Hassell Crockett of 205 Clearview Road, Washington C.H., and Mrs. Donald King of U.S. 22-NE.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home. Burial will be in Bloomingburg Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 until 9 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Sue Hall

GREENFIELD — Mrs. Sue Hall, formerly of the Washington C.H. area, died at 7:20 a.m. Wednesday in the Worthington Convalescent Center. She had been ill one year. Born in Brackton County, Ky., she was the widow of L.H. Hall who died in 1953.

Surviving are four sons, W.J. Hall and E.M. (Lige) Hall, both of Greenfield, James Hall of Rt. 1, New Vienna, and Frank Hall of Fountain Hills, Ariz.; one daughter, Mrs. Mary King of Clearwater, Fla.; 15 grandchildren, 35 great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren. Two sisters, Mrs. Rogan Whitaker of Cynthia, Ky., and Mrs. Maude Raymond of Louisville, Ky.; and one brother, Ernest Moore of Zendale, Kans., also survive.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the Murray Funeral Home, Greenfield, with the Rev. Clair Emerick officiating. Burial will be in Greenfield Cemetery.

Friends may call after 4 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Mabel J. Caton

LONDON — Mrs. Mabel J. Caton, 58, of 24½ Market St., Mount Sterling, was pronounced dead on arrival late Tuesday night at Madison County Hospital, London.

Employed as payroll supervisor for 20 years at Rickenbacker Air Force Base, Columbus, she retired Nov. 29, 1974, and was formerly employed by Steele Data Processing Co. in Washington C.H. Her husband, William, died in 1969.

Surviving is a sister, Mrs. Hazel Tison of Centralia, Wash.; and several nieces and nephews.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday in the Chester R. Geer Funeral Home, London, with the Rev. Harold Messmer, pastor of the Bloomingburg United Methodist Church officiating. Burial will be in Paint Township Cemetery, London.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 4 until 9 p.m. Thursday.

President pledges to visit every state before election

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — President Ford, pledging to continue two-way contact with the people "by every prudent and practical means," says he expects to visit by the end of the year the 11 states he has not seen as President.

Actually, Ford told a Republican fund-raising dinner in nearby Chicago Tuesday night that he still had 12 states to go before visiting all 50. However, aides later said his speechwriters made a mistake and that he has already visited 39 of the 50 states.

Now in the midst of a twoday Midwestern swing marked by stringent security precautions, Ford invited about 30 small-town mayors from Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin to meet with him here this morning before he flies to his native Omaha, Neb., for a White House-sponsored conference on domestic policy at which the President promised to respond to questions from the floor.

In his Chicago speech, he declared:

Phone competition probe ends

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A special legislative utilities committee will wind up a six-month investigation next week, apparently leaving the book open on charges of unfair competitive practices by Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

Rep. Thomas J. Carney, D-71 Boardman, chairman of the Joint Select Committee on Energy, said Tuesday he didn't know how the matter could be thoroughly investigated over the next two weeks. The panel will meet next week to draft a final report due Oct. 15.

Donald W. Morrison, vice president and general counsel for Ohio Bell, testified Tuesday in response to serious charges leveled last week by a former Ohio Bell employee who currently is competing with Bell. By his own admission, however, Morrison did not have all of the answers.

He said Bell was competing fairly and legally with private suppliers of terminal equipment such as switchboards, stylized phones and answering devices.

But in order to meet this competition, the executive said "rates for elaborate equipment for business firms will be reduced and where contributions for these services have helped to hold down rates for residence services, it will be lost."

"To that extent," Morrison noted, "the homeowner is going to pick up the price of the competition."

James L. Cotesworth, who worked for Bell nine years before joining a Cleveland-based distributor of private equipment, has accused Bell of "illegal, discriminatory pricing schemes," aimed at driving private suppliers out of the market.

Morrison denied this, but was unable to respond to specific allegations because he said Cotesworth had not presented enough detailed information.

That rankled some committee members.

"It appears that this witness cannot provide us with the answers we're looking for," complained Carney. "I am disappointed that you have not been able to respond specifically (to the charges)."

Sen. Gene Slagle, D-26 Galion, grilled the Bell counsel with an unusually sharp series of questions, demanding at one point to know his yearly salary. Morrison said he made $75,000.

He told Slagle Bell employees were not required to make political contributions, although he acknowledged a personal donation of $600 or $700 in 1974 to the Republican Party.

Cotesworth has asserted that he was advised to contribute to a particular party and charge it off to an expense account during his employment with Bell.

Morrison said that "would be a violation of our policy."

At one point, Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, objected to Slagle's line of questioning as "improper," but made no motion to squelch his Democratic colleague.

Morrison told newsmen he was not offended by the questions.

Acropolis to get costly facelift

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The Acropolis, the 2,500-year-old shrine to the glory of ancient Greece, is getting help from home and abroad in a major face-lifting effort described as "the world's greatest marble restoration operation."

Prof. George Dontas, Greece's director of antiquities, said Tuesday the government has appropriated $1.6 million for repair work, and a UNESCO team is due soon to discuss the work and further funds.

Dontas said the second international Antiquity Preservation Congress, to be held in Athens next year, is expected to approve additional foreign technical and economic assistance for the project.

The historical and architectural gems on the ancient hill have been left in ruins by the ravages of war, time, foreign occupation and looters. The Parthenon, the temple to the goddess Athena built between 447 and 432 B.C., was used as living quarters for prostitutes in the 3rd century B.C. and as a gunpowder magazine during the Ottoman occupation.

Now cracks and erosion threaten the ruins.

The limestone hill has open underground rifts and caves, seeping water and cracks and fissures from earthquakes, lesser earth movements and temperature changes. The National Geological and Metal Ore Research Institute is preparing a program of remedies.

Metal supports placed inside and outside the columns have expanded and contracted, damaging the stone they were supposed to protect. Dontas said they probably will be replaced by supports in which costly noncorrosive titanium will be a major component.

Temporary wooden supports will also be erected.

Other threats to the marble are erosion by polluted air and rain water, photochemical reactions provoked by neon lighting, vibration from aircraft flying over the area and the shoes of the 2 million tourists who visit the hill annually.

The government three years ago had wooden planks laid on the Propylae, or entrance to the hill, and three months ago it barred visitors from the interior of the Parthenon.

Five months ago, the government concluded an all-out effort was necessary and appointed rescue committees. Dontas said that so far they have concentrated on locating the danger spots.

The fight to save the Acropolis and its monuments "will be like a delicate operation to save an aging celebrity in need of specialized treatment," Dontas said. "False diagnosis could be fatal after serious mistakes already committed in the past."

Topographers, geologists, engineers, sculptors, chemists and even gamma-ray studies are being used "to establish a thorough file on every single piece of marble on the Acropolis," he continued.

"Such a task of marble restoration has never been faced anywhere in the world, at least on such a scale."

Beginning today, the U.S. Postal Service will introduce a program at the Washington C.H. Post Office and other offices across the nation to encourage mail customers to register problems that they may have with their mail service.

At the core of the program is a consumer service card, through which problems are identified and which postal managers attempt to expeditiously resolve.

The consumer service program reflects Postmaster General Benjamin Bailor's determination that mail services to the public will be "friendly, courteous and efficient," as well as speedy and reliable.

"Good service is a far broader concept than just fast mail handling, as important as that is," Dailer says. "It is also built on employee courtesy, our responsiveness to customer needs, the sympathy and understanding we bring to your own expectations of what good postal service is all about."

Witherspoon urged Washington C.H. customers to bring their inquiries and complaints to the attention of postal managers. "And if people feel their problems have not been handled properly, the postmaster said, they should see him personally."

To make it easier for a customer to make a suggestion or complaint about the postal service, the new customer service cards will be available from letter carriers and at post offices.

According to Witherspoon, the card is two postal cards with carbon paper between them. "One copy goes to me or a postal supervisor so work can begin on the problem. The other goes to postal service headquarters in Washington, D.C. for cataloging analysis. The cards will help management spot problem areas and trends and take corrective action if necessary," Witherspoon said.

"We want you to come to us with your problem. The whole point of this service program is to bring your problems and gripes out into the open where we can attempt to resolve them," the local postmaster said.

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, propped up by some tentative bargain hunting after the sharp declines of the past two trading days.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 2.01 at 795.89 after a 24.72-point slide in the week's first two sessions. But gainers trailed losers by about a 5-4 margin in the overall count on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers traced the cautious buying to anticipation by some technically inclined investors that the Dow would hold in the low 790s—a point from which it rebounded late in August and again two weeks ago.

Texaco was the most active issue on the Big Board, unchanged at 23 1/2. A 100,000-share block of the stock traded at 23 1/4.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index slipped .13 to 83.01. The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks advanced .11 to 44.60.

Circle K Corp., the Amex volume leader, was unchanged at 5.

Ohio cities show increase in crimes

By The Associated Press
Columbus led nine Ohio cities in an increase in crime for the first six months of 1975 compared to the same period a year ago, according to FBI figures released Tuesday by U. S. Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi.

Only one Ohio city with more than 100,000 population showed a decline. The total crime index in Canton was down 287.

Reported crimes in Columbus, Ohio's second largest city, jumped from 16,941 to 22,769, an increase of 5,828. Canton's decrease was from from 3,289 to 3,002.

The totals include crimes of murder, non-negligent manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary or breaking and entering, larceny-theft and motor vehicle theft.

Robberies in Columbus jumped from 802 to 1,105 while larcenies increased from 8,701 to 11,430 and burglaries jumped from 5,345 to 7,647. The FBI figures showed.

Cleveland was second among Ohio cities, showing an increase of 4,002 in its crime index over the same period last year. Dayton was third with a 2,767 increase.

Levi said nationally the increase was 13 per cent, compared to a 16 per cent increase for the first six months of 1974 compared to a similar period in 1973.

A rundown on total crimes in the nine Ohio cities for the six months, with 1974 figures in parenthesis, follows:
Akron 9,702 (9,079); Canton 3,002 (3,289); Cincinnati 15,837 (14,538); Cleveland 22,727 (23,225); Columbus 22,769 (16,941); Dayton 12,889 (10,122); Parma 1,287 (1,148); Toledo 15,495 (12,965); and Youngstown 3,457 (3,293).

Man arrested at Ford's hotel

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — Police arrested a young man outside a hotel where President Ford was staying today but the Secret Service later said he had nothing to do with the President.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said no gun was involved and the Secret Service no longer was interested in the young man, identified by authorities as Thomas Weber.

Nessen said Weber was thrown out of the North Shore Hilton Hotel Tuesday night for loitering, and when he appeared outside the building this morning was told by police to take his hands out of his pockets.

Weber then punched Skokie police Sgt. Philip O'Keefe, who gave the order, Nessen said.

He was wrestled to the ground and later led away with a bloody face.

Odds rising on Reagan try

It appears more and more likely that we are about to witness that rare political phenomenon, a serious and reasonably viable challenge to an incumbent president for his party's nomination. Richard Bergholz of the Los Angeles Times discerns "a growing feeling of inevitability about a bruising battle between President Ford and former Gov. Ronald Reagan in California next year."

California is not the United States, but as our most populous state it wields great political clout. Were Reagan defeated in the state he had governed for several years, that would be sudden death for his chances of wresting the nomination from Mr. Ford. Should he win in California, however - particularly if he had made a creditable showing in earlier primaries in other states - Reagan might be a formidable threat to Mr. Ford at the Republican national convention.

Though Reagan has not formally announced his candidacy, there have been numerous indications that he will run. The latest of these came the other day at a state GOP convention in San Diego. John Sears III, executive vice chairman of the national Citizens for Reagan group, told the assemblage that "we will definitely be here in your primary." And while Reagan did not address the state central committee members, he did appear before a women's caucus.

The President also was represented - by his campaign chairman, Howard Callaway. While acknowledging that the state is Reagan territory, Bergholz wrote in the Times, Callaway "said the Ford campaigners believe they can win here in the all-important winner-take-all California GOP primary."

Thus the battle lines are being drawn on the West Coast. The odds are improving on the likelihood of a Reagan challenge. And if he does run, California Republican voters will have more than anyone else to say about what strength he brings to the convention floor next summer.

WASHINGTON CALLING.... By Marquis Childs

Some melting pot

BOSTON — Smoldering beneath a surface outwardly calm - at least so long as the federal marshals and the police stay on guard - is the bitter controversy over busing. With one major exception, the support for forced busing under federal court order is minimal.

The blacks, about 20 per cent of the population, see busing as a symbol of their determination to break down the barriers that have segregated them in so many departments of life.

It is not that black parents are at ease about the comparative success thus far of school integration. They are understandably edgy that an outbreak of violence may spill over onto their children.

The concern, as elsewhere in the nation and for a variety of reasons, is over the deteriorating quality of education. Not only busing, but a teachers' strike has kept the schools in Boston in turmoil. Tension in the classrooms where the boycott by whites is slowly ending makes teaching an exercise in diplomacy.

A complication is the mayoralty contest, although it is not much of a contest since Mayor Kevin White is considered a shoo-in for re-election, both in the primary and in November, against his opponent, State Senator Joseph F. Timilty. Both are Democrats in a nonpartisan election and both have taken a hands-off position on busing.

Handsome and articulate in the tradition of the Kennedys, Mayor White believes the law must be enforced so long as it is the law, yet he deplores the consequences in the disruption of the city's school system and the animosity of white against black.

That this should be happening in Boston is a rude shock. The setting for some of the greatest educational and cultural institutions in the country, both Boston and Massachusetts have long had a liberal tradition. This was the only state to go for George McGovern in the election of 1972. It has been looked on as the inheritor of Emerson, Thoreau and the other great New Englanders. Boston was the center of the antislavery movement that led up to the Civil War.

But there can be no disguising the depth of the feeling that this conflict has stirred. The invisible walls that isolate the separate neighborhoods suggest a failure of coherence, of communication, more revealing than the struggle over school integration.

In the early part of this century a play that had wide recognition was "The Melting Pot" by Israel Zangwill. The theme was the merger of races and creeds in the melting pot of America, with the great tide of immigration that brought so many diverse peoples to these shores. Here was the hope of the world, transcending old ties and ancient prejudices.

In light of the Boston experience, there is a large question whether this melting has taken place to any extent whatsoever. Charleston and South Boston are redoubts of ethnic opposition to any change in their way of life. From these strongholds of Catholicism have come the mothers shouting their Hail Marys and carrying on prayer vigils asking God to grant them deliverance from the assault of the black invaders.

These communities are as remote from, say, Cambridge, Harvard, and the area around MIT and Boston University as though they were in another country. In the same way, although for quite different reasons, the concentration of blacks in Rosbury gives the impression of a separate world having little relation to the main stream of the city's life.

No one can argue that busing will bring down the invisible walls. At best, if it can proceed in comparative peace, it can demonstrate to young blacks and young whites that in spite of their backgrounds they have much in common.

But as those in high political office, wanting to wish away the bitter onus of busing, say with increasing fervor, action must come in housing, job opportunities and other remedies if there is to be true integration.

While this has been President Ford's theme, he is doing precious little about it.

I listened to a group of black women speaking more in sorrow than in anger about the conflict. As one woman put it, "Why do they ask God to help them as though at this point God would intervene to enforce what is immoral?" Morality is surely on the side of the integrationists. The invisible walls of a segregated way of life are a contradiction of all the professions of equality that are at the base of our system.

But, to this observer, to put the whole burden of correcting this wrong on the young and the troubled school system seems almost equally wrong.

Rhodes drops regents threat

By TOM DIEMER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — With the scales now tipped in his favor, Gov. James A. Rhodes has dropped his threat to eliminate or sharply curtail the Ohio Board of Regents.

The board, which Rhodes helped create in 1963, was one of his favorite targets during his campaign and the early days of the new administration. Rhodes charged that the nine-member panel had gone beyond its statutory role to supervise planning and budgeting for state-supported institutions of higher learning.

The regents 1975-77 budget was cut, but the anticipated "ripper bill" was never introduced.

"There is no present plan to abolish the Board of Regents," the governor's executive assistant, Thomas J. Moyer, said in an interview. "He (Rhodes) still feels the board has a limited role to play."

Although Moyer denies that recent appointments have had any direct influence on the administration's view of the board, Rhodes appointees now hold a 5-4 margin over those named by former Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Rhodes filled three vacancies in September with William C. Safford, a Cincinnati insurance man, Marjorie E.

Fawcett, wife of former Ohio State president Novice G. Fawcett, and James E. Shocknessy, chairman of the Ohio Turnpike Commission.

Shocknessy, a Democrat, was a Rhodes appointee as a member of the board of trustees at Ohio State University. His term has expired.

Democrats still hold a 6-2 margin on the regents board, which clings doggedly to a nonpartisan image. One member, Donald L. Huber of Dayton, is an independent.

While Rhodes has softened his position, the higher education planners have come under new attack from the Cost Control Council, an independent study group created by Rhodes last February.

The cost experts have recommended that the legislature "conduct a comprehensive study of Ohio's system of higher education to develop a policy and administrative structure to maximize its effectiveness and economy."

In one of its reports, the cost council said the regents staff was "falling short of accomplishing" its objective to develop and implement longrange plans for colleges and universities.

"This is because of sustained opposition from the institutions," the report said.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Bachelor wooed by fat woman's presents

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old professional man who is just getting started-on a shoestring, you might say. A very bright (but terribly over-weight) 26-year-old woman has been aggressively pursuing me. She's good company, but I have no real love interest in her.

I do not like being seen with her because of her size. (She wears clothes that look like tents or maternity clothes.)

She has plenty of money, since she just came into an inheritance, and has been buying me some very expensive presents. She has offered to buy me a car, but so far I have refused although it would come in very handy.

She is an excellent bed partner, but I have to take her out in public occasionally, which makes it awkward. My brother, who has met her, tells me that if I do not have marriage in mind, I should not see her or accept any more gifts from her.

What do you advise?

CANADIAN

DEAR CANADIAN: Your brother is wiser than you are. The more you accept from this girl, the greater your obligation. Furthermore, she may equate your accepting her as a bed partner with having a "real love interest" in her-which you have not.

The advice from here is to either level with her or say goodbye.

DEAR ABBY: Why should anyone be made to feel guilty for having mistaken a boy for a girl? I wouldn't let the kid put the onus on ME, I'd put it on HIM, where it belongs.

This happened to me once, and I asked, "Well if you don't want people to think you're a girl, why do you go around looking like one?"

VIVIAN L., PALM SPRINGS

DEAR VIV: Thanks for a beautiful gender bender!

DEAR ABBY: I am a professional entertainer. I love to sing, and being on the bandstand, showing people a good time, is what it's all about.

I have a very real gripe: Invariably, there is a frustrated singer in the audience. He (or she) will dance as close to the mike as possible and sing loudly along with me. It's very distracting to hear someone singing a beat behind (or ahead) and usually off-key.

I want everyone to enjoy themselves, but not at my expense. After all, someone just might be trying to listen to ME.

The orchestra and I practice long, hard hours to make our music good, and it bugs me to have somebody who is on his own little ego trip louse it up for everyone else.

If some self-styled vocalist wants to be where I am, let him take voice lessons as I did, form a group and take it from the top, boys! I hear you also get paid.

So, if you're there in the audience, please don't sing!

Today is Wednesday, Oct. 1, the 274th day of 1975. There are 91 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1949, the People's Republic of China was proclaimed by the Communist leader, Mao Tse-tung.

On this date:

In 1800, Spain ceded Louisiana to France in a secret treaty.

In 1890, Congress transferred the Weather Bureau from the Army to the Department of Agriculture.

In 1908, Henry Ford introduced his famous Model-T car.

In 1910, Japan annexed Korea.

In 1928, the Soviet union inaugurated its first Five-Year Plan to increase farm and industrial production.

In 1936, Gen. Francisco Franco was proclaimed the head of the government of Spain.

Ten years ago: It appeared that an attempt to overthrow President Sukarno of Indonesia had been foiled.

Five years ago: President Richard M. Nixon was conferring in Yugoslavia with President Tito.

For Rotary Club members

Surveying history traced

The history of the surveying profession was traced for members of the Washington C.H. Rotary club at the regular weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Country Club.

Gale L. Helms, a licensed surveyor and a partner in Gale Helms and Associates, Inc., engineering and surveying firm in Washington C.H., told fellow Rotary Club members that the surveying profession actually received its start as far back as Biblical times.

Helms, 630 Hess Road, a relatively new member of the Rotary Club, said descriptions of land are given in the Bible.

The Egyptians were the first surveyors and were teamed as "rope-stretchers," according to Helms, who was employed by the Fayette County engineer's office from 1958 until 1966.

Helms, who serves as executive vice president of the Professional Land Surveyors of Ohio organization and is a member of the Ohio Society of Professional Engineers and Surveyors, said the use of chains for measurements began in early England. Helms also said George Washington and Thomas Jefferson were surveyors.

Over the years, according to Helms, the basic descriptions on deeds recorded in county courthouses has not changed greatly. However, he did point out that the equipment being used by surveyors is becoming more sophisticated.

Ohio is quite unique, Helms said, in that 12 different types of surveys are used in the state.

The meeting was conducted by club president William E. Williams and the program was arranged by Howard Miller.

During the meeting, two new members were accepted into the club. They were Dale Willis, an associate in the Richard R. Willis Insurance Co., who was sponsored by Dave Ogan, and Dr. James McCracken, a Washington C.H. chiropractor. Dr. McCracken was sponsored by Paul Crosby. Dr. Leroy Davis, pastor of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, was reinstated as a Rotary club member.

Rollo M. Marchant continued an old Rotary Club tradition started by the late Ray Maddux as he issued the customary charge to all new members who have joined the club within the past year.

Plaques were presented to Dr. James E. Rose, a Washington C.H. physician for a number of years, and Dr. John G. Jordan, a local dentist for many years, during the meeting. Dr. Jordan and Dr. Rose are both Rotary Club members. Dr. Rose now resides and practices medicine in Wilmington and has transferred his Rotary Club membership there.

The plaques recognized Dr. Rose and Dr. Jordan for their years of service to Washington C.H. and Fayette County.

The presentation was made by Williams in the absence of Richard Whiteside, chairman of the Fayette County Health Planning Council.

Visiting Rotarians were Darrell French and Dr. Rose of Wilmington, State Representative Robert McEwen of Hillsboro, Jerry Ardrey of London, Art Dick of Mount Sterling, Everett Royer of London, James Kerr of Boardman and Earl Palm of Circleville. Mike Malloy of Circleville was a guest with Palm.

Brett Gundlach of Miami Trace High School was a student guest.

Minister objects to printing pact

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A tentative agreement by Dayton Press, Inc. — formerly McCall's — to print the Hustler men's magazine has brought strong objections from a group of local Southern Baptist ministers.

Representatives of the pastors' conference of the Greater Dayton Association of Southern Baptists voted Tuesday to write to company officials to express their opposition.

The group, which represents 75 churches and 27,000 area Baptists, also will encourage individual pastors to write to the firm.

"We're a little upset that a company like this that has been such a tremendous influence in the community, provided so many jobs and done such good, would stoop this low," said the Rev. Orville Griffin, superintendent of missions for the group.

The Rev. Mr. Griffin called the Columbus-based magazine "pornographic and lewd" and said his group thinks Dayton Press' commitment to print it is "another step downward for our society."

Larry Flynt, publisher of the magazine, announced recently he is considering moving printing of the monthly publication from New York to Dayton Press.

Charles D. Aikman, president of Dayton Press, confirmed the tentative agreement and said a final contract depends on the firm's "ability to produce the quality he desires."

But Aikman said he doesn't think the company will have any trouble winning the threeyear, $30 million contract.

Another company spokesman said firm officials expected a lot of adverse publicity about the agreement, but added "it's business."

"As far as we know, it (Hustler magazine) is legal, it's sold on the newsstands, it's mailed through the mail," he said. "What else can we do?"

The Rev. Mr. Griffin said the pastors first got upset when church members who work at the firm expressed concern about working on the magazine.

He said company officials are "putting the men in a bad position of having to decide between their jobs and their Christian principles."

Police wound holdup suspect

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Frank L. Norther, 21, of Cincinnati, was critically wounded by Cincinnati police who arrested three of his companions following a jewelry store holdup late Tuesday.

Police said a large amount of cash and jewelry was recovered from a car that struck a utility pole on Hamilton Avenue in the College Hill section. Police said the H.A. Schwartz Jewelry Store had been robbed by four men.

SELECTING UPHOLSTERY

The fabric on upholstered furniture certainly does get the wear. Alas, there just aren't set rules to tell you how long a fabric will wear — because use of furniture varies with every family. But, some fabric "know-how" will help you when choosing fabric for new furniture or to recover a used item.

Check Weave — look at the fabric carefully — are the threads close together? That tells you how tightly woven the fabric is. The closer the threads, the firmer the fabric — and the more wear it will take. Pull the fabric gently in all directions. A tightly woven fabric won't "give" much. Loosely woven fabrics may show thread slippage and may stretch with wear. They tend to snag easily, too.

Check Fiber Content — another clue to fabric durability is fiber content, so look for labels. A fiber content label may not be on the furniture itself, but it should be on the dealer's fabric samples. You'll probably find the fiber's generic name plus some familiar brand names.

Some upholstery fabrics are blends of two or more fibers. The label will tell you how much of each fiber is present. The fiber used in the largest amount seems to dominate, so the fabric will probably have the qualities of that fiber.

Knowing the qualities of upholstery fibers will help you choose a fabric that fits your needs. No fiber is perfect — each fiber has strong and weak points.

For example, rayon and acetate are the fibers most often used in upholstery fabrics. They are popular because they color well, may have a high luster, and have a good hand — that means they are pleasant to touch. These fibers are fairly inexpensive, too. But — rayon and acetate fibers don't wear too well, they wrinkle, and may be hard to clean.

Three natural fibers — cotton, linen, and wool — are often used in blends with other fibers to give strength. If these fibers are used alone, they make strong, long-wearing fabrics. However, these fabrics don't have much luster and may not be very colorfast in a print. Wood fabrics also tend to be a bit scratchy. All three fibers clean well.

Nylon is a very popular upholstery fiber because it is so strong and resistant to abrasion. Nylon is often used with weaker fibers for added strength. Fabrics of 100 per cent nylon wear well. They are available in many colors; the fabrics have some luster and are very easy to clean. But, nylon fabrics are expensive — they also tend to pull and create static electricity.

Olefin is another strong upholstery fiber. It's better known by such brand names as Herculan, Vectra, Marvess, and Durel. This fiber resists stains and is very easy to clean. But, the fiber is difficult to dye and printed colors tend to rub off. Olefin costs less than nylon and has little static electricity. Some olefin fabrics pull and seem sticky which makes lint hard to remove.

Another fiber used in some upholstery fabrics is polyester. This fiber is often combined with other fibers, usually cotton. Polyester adds strength and easy-care qualities to a fabric.

Check Durability Ratings — a new "durability code" may take some of the guess work out of upholstery fabric selection. Recently, the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers Association agreed on a uniform code for fabric performance. It's intended to help consumers choose upholstery fabrics suitable for particular uses.

Here's how the code works: 3 green h's (hhh) means the fabric is rated HEAVY DUTY — suitable for normal use by an active family with children. 3 blue m's (mmm) means the fabric is rated MEDIUM DUTY — suitable for normal use in adult households. 3 yellow l's (lll) means the fabric is rated LIGHT DUTY — suitable for use in adult households where furniture is selected for aesthetic value rather than performance. 3 red d's (ddd) means the fabric is rated delicate. Fabrics with this code are primarily decorative and need more respect and care than fabrics with other ratings. Look for this durability information on upholstery swatches, furniture deck labels, and product tags. The standards are voluntary but should start showing up in most furniture showrooms soon.

Check Cleanability and Care Required — the wearing quality of an upholstery fabric also depends upon the care you give the fabric. Regular vacuuming, prompt stain removal, and professional cleaning as needed extend the life of the fabric. Check this column next week for information on the new cleanability code.

Mrs. Eckle feted at layette shower

Mrs. Terry Eckle was guest of honor at a layette shower held in the home of Mrs. Roger Garringer. Co-hostess for the shower was Mrs. Danny Sharrett. Decorations were in pink and blue with a wicker basket of blue and white daisies and pink sweetheart roses centering the gift table.

Mrs. Herbert Eckle, Mrs. Benji Self and Mrs. Homer Curry were the game winners.

Punch, coffee and a dessert course were served following the opening of gifts to Mrs. Homer Curry, Mrs. Herbert Eckle, Miss Lynn Childress, Miss Terry Childress, Miss Monica Jaekles, Mrs. Rich Thomas, Mrs. John Foy, Mrs. John Bogenrife, Miss Cathy Newbrey, Mrs. Self, Mrs. Robert Ernst, Mrs. Gary Card, Miss Jill Doyle, Miss Debbie Doyle, Miss Eileen Doyle, Mrs. Ronnie Dawson, Mrs. David Souther, Miss Pam Landrum, Mrs. Randy Cox, Mrs. Larry Kelly, Mrs. Don Robinett and daughter, Debby, Miss Phyllis Prater, Mrs. Marvin Jones, Mrs. Edward Jenkins, Mrs. Mollie Garringer, Mrs. David Petit, Mrs. Beatrice Landrum and Mrs. Penny Curry.

Senior nutrition group names the officers

Activities of the Senior Nutrition program originate and are usually the responsibility of the Site Council which is composed of Pearl Stoughton, chairman; Melvin Fountain, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Hurtt, secretary; Mrs. Virginia Essman, Welfare Department; Mrs. Phyllis Richards, Health Department; Alberta Grabill, Everett Marchington; Mrs. Vesper Flint, Mrs. Edna Naylor and Judy Clerk.

A much needed Senior Citizen Center and Elderly low-income housing is a goal of this group. A building fund has been started, and donations are accepted to the fund. The main project to support the fund is the quilting of handmade quilts, which are then offered for sale.

Cline family has reunion

The second annual Cline family reunion took place at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cline, 6598 Upper Jamestown Rd., Jeffersonville, recently.

Those present were Mr. Robert Cline and Miss Dorothy Cline, both of Dayton; Mrs. Catharine Spurgeon of Port William; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Prater and son Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Cline and sons, Andy and Peter, and daughter, Noell of Enon; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cline and grandson Jason of Fairborn; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cline, Mr. and Mrs. John Grady Cline, Mrs. Sharon Powers and daughters, Bethany, Stephanie, Rachel and Laura, all of Jamestown; Mrs. Thelma Cline of Jeffersonville; and the hosts and their sons, Charles and Stephen.

WISH group plans bake sale Saturday

Women in Service Helping (WISH) have planned a Bake Sale for Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m. in front of G.C. Murphy's. All proceeds will go to the Educable Mentally Retarded classes (EMR).

Equipment from the school will also be on display at the garage and bake sales, with free 'Learning Tree' cookies, to be served.

Anyone interested in enrolling a child in the Learning Tree School may phone 335-2782 or 335-0102.

A long time ago we read about a way to make cracking walnuts, butternuts and hickory nuts easier. Put the unshelled nuts on the rack in your pressure cooker, add one-third of a cup of water and pressure cook for six minutes. When the air has been exhausted, cool and crack the nuts right away. The shell splits with one easy tap and the nut meat comes right out, usually.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD EVERHART

Miss Rhonda Oty becomes bride of Donald Everhart

Miss Rhonda Oty became the bride of Donald (Joe) Everhart on September 7th. The wedding took place in the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Ralph Wolford officiating. Mrs. Paul Brunner played the organ.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Orville Oty of Columbus and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Everhart of 615 Washington Ave.

Miss Teresa Oty of Columbus, was her sister's maid of honor. Greg Ellenberger served as best man. Ushers were Harold Everhart Jr., brother of the groom, and Wayne and Martin Oty, brothers of the bride. Pam Everhart, sister of the groom, attended the guest book.

A reception followed in the church recreation room.

The new Mrs. Everhart, a 1974 graduate of West High School in Columbus, was formerly employed by the Buckeye Union Insurance Company in Columbus. Her husband, a 1974 graduate of Washington Senior High School, is in the U.S. Air Force, presently stationed at Carswell A.F.B., in Fort Worth, Tex. The couple left on their honeymoon through the southern states en route to their new home in Fort Worth.

A rehearsal dinner was held on Saturday evening, at the home of the groom's parents.

Hospital Auxiliary plans to purchase projector

The home of Mrs. N. M. Reiff, the founder and first president of the Fayette Hospital Auxiliary, was the setting Monday evening for the only social meeting of the year for the Auxiliary.

The members and guests were invited to the dining room soon after their arrival where they were served punch by Mrs. Ralph Child, immediate past president of the Auxiliary. The table was filled with home-baked cookies of many kinds prepared by the Auxiliary officers and Board members. The unusual and lovely table decorations were planned and carried out by Mrs. Robert D. Woodmansee.

Although the evening was principally for enjoyment, President Miss Marjorie Evans, conducted a brief business meeting, when the Auxiliary voted to make the purchase of a projector for the hospital for teaching purposes. The Auxiliary thus far during 1975 has given equipment to the hospital costing approximately $4200 with all these purchases being paid for by profits from the Gift Shop.

Learning Tree Board plans garage, bake sale

A display of equipment to be used at the new early childhood development center, The Learning Tree, with pamphlets describing the school, will be on a table in front of the Super-X Drug Store Saturday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Present to answer questions concerning enrollment of children, ages 2½ to five years, will be the teacher, Mrs. Warren Monday. The school, located at 927 Briar Ave., will open Monday, Oct. 6.

Since the school is a non-profit organization, six mothers of children already enrolled, who form the Board of Directors, are sponsoring a garage and bake sale at the home of Mrs. Debra McMillan, 776 McLean St. also on Saturday. The garage sale will be from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m., and the bake sale from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Equipment from the school will also be on display at the garage and bake sales, with free 'Learning Tree' cookies, to be served.

Anyone interested in enrolling a child in the Learning Tree School may phone 335-2782 or 335-0102.

Greenfield murder suspect indicted

HILLSBORO — A Greenfield man was indicted on a charge of murder Tuesday by a Highland County grand jury.

Donald A. Mootispaw Jr., 20, of 430 Waddell St. Greenfield, was indicted in connection with the shooting death of his 18-year-old wife Sept. 3.

Mootispaw is scheduled to appear at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday for arraignment on the charge before Highland County Common Pleas Court Judge Darrell Hottle.

The possible penalty Mootispaw faces on the murder charge is 15 years to life imprisonment.

He is being held in Highland County jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

The suspect was arrested by Greenfield police officers at his residence Sept. 3. The police officers had responded to a call made by an unidentified person and found Patty Mootispaw dead at the scene at 11:52 p.m. She had been shot in the upper chest with a single blast from a 20-gauge shotgun.

The victim was pronounced dead at the scene by Highland County coroner Dr. Paul Terrell.

Leesburg resident pleads guilty in boy's drowning

HILLSBORO — A Leesburg man has been sentenced to the Cincinnati Workhouse and fined after he pleaded guilty in Highland County Common Pleas Court to a charge of vehicular homicide. A charge against his father was dropped.

Judge Darrell R. Hottle sentenced Robert D. Penwell, 28, of Leesburg, to six months in the workhouse and fined him $1,000. The fine was suspended on the condition that Penwell abide by the terms of his probation and pay court costs.

The charge which Pensell admitted was reduced from an original charge of aggravated vehicular homicide. He and his father, Robert Penwell, 59, of Leesburg, were charged in connection with the death of 10-year-old Mark McKeever of New Petersburg on June 12.

The charge against the elder Penwell was dropped at the request of Highland County prosecuting attorney John O. Crouse. He said that there was sufficient evidence available to show that the elder Penwell operated the boat as charged.

The Penwells had both been scheduled for trial in Highland County Common Pleas Court.

The drowned youth, the Penwells and two others were in a small boat which sank June 12 in Paint Creek Lake. All occupants were rescued or swam ashore except the McKeever boy. His body was recovered the following day.

Lion holds little girl in mouth

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Thirteen-month-old Meredith McDevitt of West Chester, Ohio, escaped without a scratch after a nine-month-old trained lion had her in his mouth Tuesday.

"She's all right," said her father, James McDevitt, following the incident in the lobby of the First Mason Bank at Mason, Ohio.

Handler Steve Clark, of Lion Country Safari at nearby Kings Island Amusement Park, said he stopped in the bank with the lion cub, named Bwana, to visit bank vice president Donald Williams. Bwana had performed before children at a nearby school earlier in the day.

"Bwana is used to children, but I think the cub didn't know if the little girl was playing or not," Clark said.

Meredith had broken away from her mother and run at the lion.

"The lion grabbed the girl and they both fell to the floor. Just that quick, I grabbed the choker line and Bwana released the girl but still had his paws around her," Clark said.

He said the lion's claws had been removed.

"Bwana knew he was in trouble, but just didn't know how to handle it.

"There is no doubt the lion could crush the girl's skull, but I think this proves the animal is well trained," Clark said.

Williams said the girl was not harmed.

Clark took Bwana back to his quarters at the amusement park.

Pinkney, Perk win in primary

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — School Board President Arnold R. Pinkney and Mayor Ralph J. Perk, who ran against each other for mayor in 1971, Tuesday outpolled six other primary contenders to qualify for November's mayoral race.

With all of the city's 644 precincts counted, the unofficial results showed Pinkney had 48,168, or about 41 per cent of the total vote. Perk had 44,310, or about 38 per cent.

The Cuyahoga County Board of Election also said State Rep. Patrick

Sweeney had 10,674 and Jim Dickerson, former Ohio Lottery deputy director, had 8,873.

The four other candidates split the remaining votes, but under the primary rules only the top two qualify for the Nov. 4 election.

Paisley scholarship semifinalist

Principal Mr. Curtis Fleisher has announced that Steve Paisley, a senior at Miami Trace High School, has been named as a semifinalist in the 1976 National Merit Scholarship program. These students are among 15,000 who will continue in the competition for about 3,800 merit scholarships to be awarded next spring.

Over one million students from more than 17,000 high schools entered the 1976 Merit Program by taking the 1974 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test - National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT-NMSQT). The semifinalists are the highest-scoring students in each state; the number named in each state is proportional to the state's percentage of the nation's graduating high school senior class. The semifinalists, most of whom will complete high school and enter college in 1976, represent the top half of one per cent of the nation's most academically talented young people.

To continue in the competition, semifinalists must advance to finalist standing by meeting a number of requirements that include being fully endorsed and recommended for scholarship consideration by their secondary school principals, presenting school records that substantiate high academic standing, and confirming their high PSAT-NMSQT scores with equivalent scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT). Over 90 per cent of the semifinalists are expected to qualify as finalists and to receive certificates of merit next February. All winners of Merit Scholarships are chosen from the highly able group of finalists.

Every finalist competes for one of the 1,000 National Merit $1,000 scholarships. A finalist competes with all other finalists in a state for the scholarships allocated to that state. The allocation procedure is the same as the method used to name semifinalists. The National Merit $1000 scholarships are on-time, nonrenewable awards supported by business and industrial sponsors and by NMSC's own funds. A selection committee of professionals in college admissions and counseling is convened to select the 1,000 winners nationwide.

Finalists who meet the qualifications that sponsors of four-year Merit Scholarships designate for winners of their awards will also be considered for about 2,800 of these awards to be offered in 1976. The list of sponsors includes corporations, foundations, colleges, unions, and professional associations. Depending upon the minimum and maximum value established by the four-year Merit Scholarship sponsor, a winner may receive up to $1,500 (or more) during each of the four college undergraduate years.

The 1976 competition is the twenty-first NMSC has conducted since 1956. In the twenty annual Merit programs completed to date, over 41,800 students have won Merit Scholarships valued at more than $113 million.

The Miami Tracer

Scholarship program scheduled

"Bicentennial Seniors," a $112,000 scholarship program for high school seniors who will graduate with the class of 1976, is being launched this month by the National Association of Secondary School Principals. Complete details on how to participate in the program are available now at Mrs. Snow's office.

One national winner will receive a $10,000 scholarship and 102 state winners will receive $1,000 scholarships under the program.

Winners will be selected first locally, then on a state wide level. Two winners will be chosen in each state and the District of Columbia. Each of the 102 state winners will also receive an all expense paid trip to Williamsburg, Va. from January 16-19, 1976 to attend seminars on educational and social issues and to be on hand for the selection of the national winner.

Competition will include preparation of a minute-long television script to be patterned after the CBS television network's 200 years ago today "Bicentennial Minutes," a commentary discussing the relevance of the "minute" for today and the lessons it contains for the future; and a current events examination emphasizing issues and events from the past year.

The program is administered by the National Association of Secondary School Principals and is funded by the Shell Oil Co. Applications must be filed by October 6.

Mrs. Rita Krammes is a new teacher at Miami Trace High School this year. She teaches English and Science in the special education department. She is also coach of the volleyball team which is a new girls' sport at school.

She graduated from Morehead State University in Kentucky, receiving a bachelor of arts degree. A former Miami Trace student, returning as a teacher, she made some comments on what it is like to be back. "Most people told me it would be entirely difference, but it generally is the same, except the students act more free."

She is married and now residing in Bloomingburg. Her interests include tennis, golf, and painting.

"I really feel at home here", she remarked.

IN-THE-NOW TEAM — Who was the first woman in the U.S. to win the Nobel Peace Prize? When was the Battle of Hastings fought? There are just two of the questions commonly asked Miami Trace's In-the-Know team. The In-the-Know game taped Sept. 15 proved to be a challenge. The more experienced Columbus Central team topped Miami Trace. The regular team members included Jim Ingram, Julie Fettes, Elaine Puckett and Kathy Junk. Alternates were Denise Beoddy and Danny Pierce. The advisors were Miss Davis, Miss Sollars and Mr. Huss.

Trotwood teacher strike settled

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Striking teachers at suburban Trotwood agreed to return to their classes today after working out general details of a new contract, School Supt. George Mourwzis reported late Tuesday.

The teachers struck Monday after a week of negotiations failed to resolve differences with school officials.

The proposed agreement provides a base salary of $8,410, and improvements in negotiating procedures, leave and fringe benefits, the superintendent said.

Some details of the salary package remain to be worked out, he added. Classes continued in the district despite the strike.

Major earthquake shakes Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The Meteorological Department in Jakarta recorded a large earthquake centered at Bengkulu on the southern coast of Sumatra, 300 miles northwest of Jakarta, today. There were no immediate reports of casualties.

The department said the earthquake's magnitude was 5.8 on the open-ended Richter scale, meaning considerable damage was possible in populated areas.

The U.S. Geological Survey earlier reported measuring a force of 7.0 for the quake in Sumatra, meaning widespread, heavy damage was possible.

The Survey, at Golden, Colo., said the quake occurred at about 11:30 p.m. EDT Tuesday, or at about 10:30 a.m. today Sumatra time.

The earthquake is at least the sixth one of magnitude 7.0 to have occurred in the world this year and is large enough to cause significant damages in heavily populated areas, the survey said.

Ohio crops seen great

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Corp Reporting Service said Tuesday Ohio's 1975 corn and soybean harvests could produce alltime or near-record highs if wet weather doesn't continue.

"Muddy fields and wet grain have held corn and soybean harvesting at a standstill for two weeks, but they would dry quickly with several consecutive days of warm sunny weather in the next two weeks," Homer L. Carter said.

The harvest of tomatoes, the state's biggest vegetable crop, is expected to be higher than last year although acreage was 7 per cent less, Carter said.

Unemployment dips across Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A marked improvement in the Indiana job market over the summer appears to be continuing, the state Employment Security Division said Tuesday.

It said unemployment, adjusted to reflect seasonal changes, dropped .1 per cent to 8.4 per cent in August. It show unemployment was "dropping a

The exact location of the quake is unknown, but a survey spokesman said that the city of Padang and the Mentawai Islands, are near the quake area. He described the area as "highly seismic."

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number, say from magnitude 5.5 to magnitude 6.5, means the ground motion is 10 times greater. Some experts say the actual amount of energy released may be 30 times greater.

In populated areas, an earthquake of 3.5 on the scale can cause slight damage in the local area, 4 can cause moderate damage, 5 considerable damage, 6 can be severe. A 7 reading is a "major" earthquake capable of widespread, heavy damage; 8 is a "great" earthquake capable of tremendous damage. The great San Francisco earthquake of 1906 registered 8.3 on the Richter scale.

About 5 per cent of the corn harvesting is complete and is equal to what it was at this time last year, Carter said. Nearly 85 per cent is mature and safe from frost, slightly ahead of the normal 75 per cent, he said.

Carter expects corn yields to be about 90 bushels an acre, third highest on record. The highest was 92 bushels in 1972.

Soybeans are 5 per cent combined and although that is well behind 1974's 10 per cent at this time, 60 per cent are mature compared with 55 per cent normally, Carter said.

He predicted an alltime record soybean yield of 31 bushels per acre.

little faster than it normally would between July and August."

Rural areas improved more rapidly than cities. Fifteen largely rural counties reported unemployment rates under 6 per cent in August, compared with seven counties in July and three in June.

October began with mild temperatures and a threat of showers over Ohio. Radar this morning showed an area of showers and thundershowers over northwestern Ohio extending southwest into Indiana.

These showers were associated with a cold front from Lake Huron across northwestern Ohio stretching down into Texas.

The front was expected to continue eastward through the state today accompanied by showers and thundershowers. Much cooler air was to follow the front, dropping temperatures into the upper 30s or low 40s by Thursday morning, in contrast to the upper 50s and low 60s around the state this morning.

Some showers may lag behind the front tonight, mainly over the eastern sections of the state. A high pressure area now over middle America will be nosing into the state Thursday, causing decreasing cloudiness and a cool day with temperatures generally in the 50s or low 60s in the afternoon.

Fair Friday through Sunday. Highs Friday in the low 60s, warming to the low 70s Saturday and cooling to the 60s on Sunday. Lows in the 40s.

Showdown over energy starts

Natural gas deregulation comes up for Senate vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is nearing a vote that could determine whether Americans will have adequate natural gas and how many more billions of dollars they will have to pay for it.

The Senate arranged a vote this afternoon on an amendment by Sen. Paul J. Fannin, R-Ariz., that would remove federal controls from the price of virtually all U.S. natural gas immediately. The proposal is expected to fail, but it could indicate how many senators are willing to let prices climb.

The dispute over the government's role in natural-gas pricing is the latest energy-policy battle between Congress and President Ford.

There is wide agreement that natural gas, which heats 55 per cent of U.S. homes, will cost more in the future and on the need to avert any gas shortage this winter, mainly in 14 Eastern states.

Senate Democrats want to solve that problem before tackling the complex issue of longrange pricing of natural gas. But Republicans and gas-state senators, fearing Congress won't want to act once the emergency is averted, are trying to force the long-range question onto any emergency bill.

Republicans have a second proposal that would phase out price controls over a period of years. The Democrats are standing by with their own long-range solutions which, instead of removing price controls, would extend them to gas that now is free of controls.

There are indications that one or two votes could determine whether the Democrats or Republicans will prevail on the long-range question.

The two sides also disagree on how to handle the threatened shortage of gas this winter. Again, price is the problem.

The Democrats, led by Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., want to allow gas-short pipelines, through next June 30, to buy gas directly from the producing states—mainly Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma— for about $1.25 per unit. That is almost 150 per cent above the current price.

Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., in a solution endorsed by Ford, would allow such purchases but without any price ceiling at all.

The Federal Power Commission says either approach would allow the diversion of enough gas to reduce the expected shortage

'Pinups' Lions Club's topic

"One man's pinup is another man's pornography," Dr. Byron Stinson told members of the Washington C.H. Lions Club during the organization's regular semi-monthly dinner meeting Tuesday night in the Country Club.

"Each man has to decide for himself what is pornography and what are pinups," the professor in the Ohio State University psychiatry department said.

Pinups have been a part of the subculture or perhaps culture ever since man could reproduce objects of art, Dr. Stinson said in tracing the history of the unusual topic.

Dr. Stinson, who resides near the Clarksburg community, said pornography was not widespread until the invention of the printing press. He said the Italians were the first to print so-called pornographic material around 1475.

The retired U.S. Air Force Reserve colonel told the 70 Lions Club members present that soldiers tended to be the ones who started saving pinups on a widespread basis.

He traced the history and changes in pinups from the Civil War era, which he has researched extensively, through the present.

Dr. Stinson pointed out that the expression "hooker" was coined during the Civil War period, being derived from the name of General Joe Hooker, a commander of the Union army.

He said today's magazines which deal with "pinups" are facing financial troubles. "The market has been saturated quickly and whenever anything becomes available in masses people don't seem to bother with it," he commented.

The meeting was conducted by club president Richard Coates. The program was arranged by first vice president Jesse Persinger.

During the meeting, Coates announced that the Washington C.H. Lions Club will sponsor the Red Cross Bloodmobile Oct. 8 as a project for the celebration of "Lions World Day."

Despite low attendance and the fact that all territories were not covered, the Lions Club netted $1,000 on the annual light bulb sale held two weeks ago. Wiley Witherspoon, project chairman, said the club members sold a total of 54 cases in the door-to-door canvass and 16 cases were sold later, 14 of them at cost. Witherspoon was presented a certificate of service from Coates for his leadership in the fund-raising project.

It was announced during the meeting that a 13-district Lions Club fall conference will be held Oct. 26 at the Neil House in downtown Columbus.

During the club board of directors meeting held immediately following the dinner meeting, it was agreed to extend privileged memberships to Eddie Kirk, William Junk, Willis Coffman and Robert Minshall. Kirk has been a member of the club for 31 years and Junk is a 27-year member.

The board also approved payment of a $146.60 bill for eye glasses and eye examinations for three needy Fayette County residents.

Guests were George Shapter, Washington C.H.'s new city manager with Ralph Cook, and Dr. Ron Walker with Allen Willoughby. Lincoln Schwartz of the New Holland Lions Club also attended the meeting.

Permits issued for apartment project

Building permits for the construction of a 57-unit apartment development have been issued to Gilmore Homes, Inc.

A total of 19 three-unit apartments will be constructed on lots 1-20 on Country Club Court in the vicinity of Wagner Way. The site is situated between Golfview Drive and land owned by the Washington County Club.

Estimated cost of each three-unit apartment is $30,000.

The 5.2 acre tract, on which the apartments will be situated, is owned by Jess Gilmore, Ohio 41-N.

The apartment development has received approval from the Washington C.H. City Planning Commission and the City Zoning Board of Appeals.

OTHER building permits issued recently by city inspector Glenn Tattman include:

Loren Riley, 1370 Nelson Place, new residence at 715 Damon Drive, $30,000;

Don Cook, 212 Kathryn Court, utility building, $1,500;

Alberta Stewart, 7 Homestead Court, utility building, $190;

James Purcell, 701 Dayton Ave., new residence and addition to Sew Shop, corner of Dayton and Oakland avenues, no estimate given;

James Curnutte, 619 Pearl St., addition to porch, $200;

Kenneth's Designgroup, 433 Gibbs Ave., addition to beauty shop, $7,000 (approved by zoning board of appeals); Darrell Michael, 303 Fifth St., addition to garage, $1,200;

Logging contests set Oct. 10 at Nelsonville

NELSONVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Top loggers will compete for prizes in chopping and sawing contests in the three-day Paul Bunyan Show starting Oct. 10 at the Hocking Technical College. Robert McMahon, 1127 Grace St., utility building, $275;

Share-the-gas plan pushed

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A Dayton area businessman has launched a campaign to have unused natural gas saved by conservation diverted to International Harvester Co., Springfield's largest employer.

Robert R. Rightmyer, president of the Dayton-based Warehouse Paint Centers, calls his plan "Save a Job-Share the Gas."

Although gas company officials have applauded, they say any gas saved by residents and businesses must be diverted to all industrial users rather than one in particular.

Rightmyer says that's all right with him.

"My interest in proposing this is kind of selfish," Rightmyer said. "Springfield is my livelihood too. I've got a stake in seeing that the economy stays healthy."

Rightmyer had suggested those who could show a savings in their use of gas this winter over the last heating season ask Columbia Gas Co. of Ohio to donate it to International.

IH Plants Manager Robert J. Feilsticker said a proposed 65 per cent curtailment in natural gas would cause severe production cutbacks and jeopardize any call back of furloughed workers.

International Harvester employed 7,100 employees at its peak in 1971-72. Employment at the three IH plants is now around 3,200. Springfield has a population of 82,500.

Rightmyer said by lowering the thermostats in his two Springfield stores to 68 degrees last winter, the stores reduced their consumption by one-quarter or 90,000 cubic feet.

"We feel that by a further reduction and better insulation, wearing sweaters, shorter hours, we can reduce our usage by another 30 per cent in the 1975-76 heating season," he said.

But Rightmyer would like to know the savings will go to area industries being cut back.

"If we all did this, it could accomplish a great deal in a short time because—and this is the beauty of it—this plan bypasses the PUCO and the Congress. There is no legislation required."

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Televisa, Mexico's four-network commercial TV company, is a unique operation by U.S. standards. For one thing, only one cops and robbers show is allowed each night on any network.

For another, none of the Mexico City-based company's channels are programmed to compete against each other, says Miguel Aleman Jr., Televisa's executive vice-president.

Instead, he says, they try to complement each other with "horizontal" programming, letting viewers see on one channel what they might have missed on another channel the same night.

For example, a Mexican cultural program might be on one channel in the same hour a variety show is on another. But the cultural show would appear later that night on the second channel.

It's a far cry from the years before 1973, when Televisa was created through a merger of two companies — Telesistema Mexico, operating channels two, four and five, and Independent Mexican Television, operating channel eight.

"When we had the competition, the tone of the programs was going down, becoming vulgar and cheap," says Aleman, in town last week for an industry salute to Televisa executives.

"We were killing each other, fighting for ratings and not giving a damn about the public," added Fernando Azcarraga, Televisa's operations director, the man in charge of all its programming.

80 per cent get jobs in state program

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Eighty per cent of the 1974 graduates in the special education division of the Department of Education have been employed full time for at least a year, department records show.

In figures, that means that 1,687 educable mentally retarded students have been employed among the graduates last year compared to 84 per cent of the 1973 graduating class and 83 per cent of the 1972 class.

Exchange program brings 6 students

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Six industrial design students from Germany and their professor will arrive at Ohio State University on Thursday for an exchange program arranged by the Department of Industrial Design.

The students will study the university's approach to industrial design during their two-week stay and make short trips to other Ohio cities.

concerned about the video blight they formed Televisa, which Aleman calls a "permitted (by the government) monopoly" to do something about the situation.

In this arrangement, Televisa operates, but doesn't own, the four networks — two of which are national networks and two are regional networks serving Mexico City and the Valley of Mexico, respectively.

Their only competition comes from two government-run channels.

Televisa pays no government license fees. Instead, it gives 12½ per cent of its daily air time to the government, Aleman says. It buys or produces programs for each Televisa channel.

Aleman, who estimates there are TV sets in at least 4.5 million homes in Mexico (compared with 69.6 million TV-equipped homes in the United States), says Televisa's creation has greatly helped the tone of Mexican TV by ending its dog-eat-dog competition for viewers.

He says that by this he means the fact that it allowed "horizontal" programming let the company put far more cultural and educational programming on commercial TV than was possible in past years.

Libya pushes for Islamic center

By HILMI TOROS
Associated Press Writer

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Libya is pumping a hefty bundle of its petrodollars into a budding Islamic center to spread the faith in Africa as well as to Christians in Europe and the Americas.

In downtown Tripoli, on the compound of what was the Roman Catholic cathedral only five years ago is now the headquarters of the Islamic Call Society. It directs a network of about 200 "propagators" in 35 branches ranging from Brazil to Japan, Denmark to Kenya.

The society, also maintaining close contact with North America's black and white Moslems, is financed in part by the four per cent holy war tax Libya imposes on income and sales. Its budget is put at 20 million a year and it is increasing.

While it provides an international apparatus for strongman Moammar Khadafy's revival of Islamic fundamentalism at home, its fervor and zeal supply challenge to the delicate and carefully nurtured detente between Christianity and Islam, the world's two largest religions whose warriors once slaughtered each other as an act of faith.

The society's declared aim is to teach Islam, considered by Libya's revolutionary and devout Moslem leaders as "the seal of all other religions." But conversions — particularly of Christians in the West — are prominently mentioned. "A Danish lady came all the way to Tripoli yesterday to embrace Islam," a society official said. "An Italian lady is next."

"We are now accepted even in Western societies," says the society's head, Sheik Mahmoud Subhi.

Black Africa, however, still remains the society's prime target as it is for Christian missionaries, particularly for Roman Catholic orders.

Islam's drive southward has won over 140 million of the continent's 340 million population, officials here claim, but an African bishop, Jean Zoa of Cameroun, said he expects the continent's Christians, now only 23 per cent of the population, to make up over a half by the year 2000.

"In Africa we are ahead," Sheik

Subhi said in an interview. "But it's not because of hard work by Moslem or Christian missionaries. It's simply because Islam is a religion of nature. It preaches equality. That simple fact appeals to people."

In parts of Africa swept by rapid decolonization, Christianity is still portrayed as white man's religion.

While there exists no known incidents in drives for conversions, Khadafy has promised help to Moslem rebels fighting central governments dominated by Christians, especially aid to Eritrea's Moslem rebels against Ethiopia, and the Moslems in the Philippines. Libya is also said to have aided Lebanon's Moslems in recent sectarian warfare there.

Khadafy views them more as political "liberation" movements than just religious conflicts. "To incite Moslems against Christians and vice versa is not among Islamic principles," he once said.

School chief stages walkathon

PIQUA, Ohio (AP) — School Supt. Duane Bachman keeps in touch.

Almost every weekday evening, he teams up with a principal and a Parent-Teacher organization official to walk about town, talking in homes or in front lawns.

It's his neighborhood walk program.

Each day, he dials his office telephone to talk to a parent with children in one of his schools. The topic is anything that concerns the parents. It's his "tollphone" project.

Bachman, 39, explained his efforts to keep in touch with the people he serves this way:

"A guy once told me you don't have to sell the schools to the people—they already own them. That's kind of a watchword I've got. We're talking to the landlords, so we ought to know a little about what they are thinking."

Bachman became superintendent of Piqua schools this term after eight years as administrator of the Bath Township Local School District in Allen County.

Bachman said he wanted to be a superintendent from the time he entered education.

"I made notes—some of the gimmicks I wanted to try," he said.

"But this is the first opportunity I've had. Up in Bath, there wasn't a community to walk in. You'd have to walk down a country road."

He said he adopted the neighborhood walk program because as a school administrator, "I don't feel the people should have to come to me. I think it is my obligation to go to them."

People are often surprised when the casually dressed Bachman walks up, sticks his hand out and introduces himself to the people around. One man apologized for his attire.

"The people have really been receptive," he said. "No one's kicked us out of their home or yard yet," he said. "We haven't gone up to just people we knew but to anybody we saw and introduced ourselves."

That includes people who don't have any children in school.

"I'm here to meet people and if you're a taxpayer, I'm interested in you," he recalled telling an elderly woman. "That really made her eyes light up."

"All this really is communication," Bachman said. "That's the part of the school game I like most. You know, I don't think school people as a whole have done as much listening as we probably should."

Knievel arena being constructed

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (AP)— Construction of a 70,000-seat arena has begun at the site where motorcycle stuntman Evel Knievel will attempt to jump 14 buses October 25.

The arena will cover an area of 560,000 square feet, while the performance area for what will be Knievel's longest cycle jump will measure 126 by 600 feet.

The jump arena will seat 35,000 spectators with standing room for an additional 35,000. The structure, which will take 15 days to complete, is being built in the south parking lot of Kings Island amusement park, where the jump is to be staged.

Rice prices to remain same

WASHINGTON (AP) — Experts in the Agriculture Department say rice farmers probably will not see much further increase in market prices this season because of improved world supplies and the record U.S. crop now being harvested.

"Early price quotes for 1975-crop rice are generally ranging from $9.50 to $10.50 per hundredweight, not too different from a year ago," the department's Outlook and Situation Board said Tuesday in a preliminary report.

"But with part of the crop yet to be harvested and, with the world rice situation improved and with U.S. rice stocks expected to build, grower prices may not strengthen as they did a year ago. Thus, the season average prices to farmers likely will fall short of last year's $10.45 per hundredweight."

The report said, however, that domestic and export rice demand is expected to continue growing. Even so, USDA estimates pointing to a record rice crop of 124.8 million hundredweight, up 9 per cent from last year's harvest, indicate a further buildup of reserves at the end of 1975-76 marketing year next July 31.

Panthers try to stay up for game with league doormats

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Coach Fred Zechman's main problem this week will be keeping his Miami Trace grid squad interested in Friday night's contest with the league, celler-dwelling Madison Plains Golden Eagles.

Next week's contest with Hillsboro won't send much of a shiver down the Panther's spine either, but at least the Indians have won a couple games while the Eagles haven't even crossed the goal line this season.

After facing decided underdogs in the next two weeks, the Panthers will have a chance to play the class AA, number one team in the state when Circleville pays a visit. That's one game Zechman should have little trouble instilling a little enthusiasm in his team for.

In the meantime, the Panthers mentor will have the unenviable task of keeping his team excited about a trip to Madison Plains High School.

The Panthers will still have several goals to shoot for this Friday, however, and one is to hold the Golden Eagles scoreless as three of the other top-league teams have done.

Washington C.H. blasted the hapless Eagles 27-0, while Greenfield and Circleville registered similar 42-0 and 33-0 victories, respectively.

A solid Panther victory would keep the name Miami Trace in the minds of state sportswriters, who vote for the AP poll, until the Circleville contest, when a Panther victory could mean a definite jump in the class AAA ratings.

But, if Madison Plains gives a strong showing the Panthers may lose any hope of reaching the state's top ten this season.

The Golden Eagles do have potential and experience, but turnovers and lack of depth have cut deeply into coach Robert Crable's hope for an early season win.

Madison Plains has only 25 players listed on its team roster which is a definite handicap for Crable and his staff.

The Eagles have had little luck with their 4-3, monster defense giving up 116 points in the first four games this season, and the offense has done worse failing to score in all four games.

Crable has been juggling his lineup each week in hopes of finding a combination that may put a scare into a league opponent, so the Trace coaching staff isn't sure who or where the Eagles will lineup this week.

Players to watch Friday are tailback Mike Minner, lineman Pete Sullivan and Brian Lanigan.

There will be one change in the Panthers lineup. Sophomore Scott Martin will start at linebacker replacing the injured Rick Saunders. Martin started last Friday against Unioto and did a commendable job. Saunders injured his knee in the Jackson game and he is not expected to see any action against Madison Plains.

With that one exception the Panthers seem healthy enough to run away with this week's game, but one thing's for sure, the Eagles will be up for this contest even if the Panthers aren't.

Miami Trace Panther 'players of the week'

ART SCHLICHTER

BRUCE ERVIN

Co-captain Bruce Ervin broke Greg Cobb's three-week string of defensive "Player of the Week" honors and sophomore quarterback Art Schlichter grabbed his second offensive award for last week's play against Unioto.

Ervin had six solo tackles and three assists to total 24 defensive points for the Panther defense. Three of the senior linebacker's tackles were behind the line of scrimmage.

Cobb and tackle Dan LeBeau were right behind Ervin in defensive point totals with 22 and 20 respectively.

Senior tackle Jeff Creamer won the defensive "Big Lick of the Week" award for his hit on the Unioto quarterback causing a fumble in the fourth quarter Friday night.

Schlichter passed for 94 yards and two touchdowns while picking up 63 yards on the ground in the 34-14 victory. He also picked off two Unioto passes from his safety position on defense.

He was followed in offensive points by center Sam Grooms and fullback Rex Coe.

Ervin was awarded the "Big Lick of the Week" offensive honors with his extra effort on a running play.

Blanchester family held together through football

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The O'Rourke are a throwback to the closely knit families of yesteryear. High school football serves as their interfamily yarn.

Jack O'Rourke serves as the athletic director and football coach at Blanchester High School, a Class AA school nestled in the hills of Clinton County.

Three of his sons play for him. Jack Jr., an 18-year-old senior, is an all-league quarterback. Mike, 16, a junior halfback, has started two seasons. Tim, 14, a freshman halfback, spends most of his time with the reserves and freshman squads.

It doesn't end there.

Casey, 11, a fourth son and a fifth grader, serves as a team manager. The boys' sister, 15-year-old sophomore Patty, is a cheerleader.

Even mother is in the act. Catherine O'Rourke functions as secretary-treasurer of the Blanchester Football Boosters Club.

"It's strictly a football family," O'Rourke said proudly during a telephone interview.

O'Rourke, a native of Wellsville, left a large high school football program, Class AAA Hamilton Fairfield, four years ago for the Blanchester job.

He laughed. "A Cincinnati writer asked me why I would leave Fairfield for Blanchester.

"We used to camp at Lake Cowan and came into Blanchester to go to church. I told my wife if a job ever opened here I wanted it. I wanted to move here for my family," said the 44-year-old O'Rourke, a 20-season prep coaching veteran.

O'Rourke has been a success everywhere he has gone, Center in Colorado and Washington Court House, Lisbon Beaver, Plain City Alder and Fairfield in Ohio.

Blanchester is no different. His team went 8-1-1 in 1974. This season they have rolled to three straight victories.

O'Rourke prefers to sidestep any discussion of his sons' abilities. Just like any outstanding coach, he wants no team dissent. Such talk, he feels, might lead to that.

"If anything, I'm tougher on my own kids. I told them, 'I'm going to get on you.' They get chewed out pretty hard, but only on the field," said their coaching father.

O'Rourke is proud of the cohesion he generates with the Blanchester team.

"We built a recreation room on our old house here. We open it to all of our players. We have maybe 40 kids after a game. Pizza, pop, the whole bit.

OAC coaches name players of week

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A defensive back and a quarterback who each scored a touchdown last weekend drew the player of the week accolade this week from Ohio Athletic Conference coaches.

Otterbein quarterback Bill Hillier, a 5-foot-10 180-pounder from Mount Vernon who led his squad to its first victory over Capital in 12 years.

CINCINNATI (AP)—If 1974 was a character-building season for the Cincinnati Reds, 1975 has been the Year of the Character.

The rollicking Reds, a happy-go-lucky band that thrived on locker room ribbing, may have set a National League record for laughs en route to a division title.

The only thing they took seriously was baseball.

They heard the raps and laughed up their critics sleeves. They had a manager considered "too nice," some superstars who might be getting "too old," and a pitching staff pronounced "too thin."

But Cincinnati's collection of levity-loving "hit-men" made life miserable for opposing pitchers, winning the most games since 1907 on the way to burying the defending National League champion Los Angeles by an unthinkable 20-game margin.

Tough-minded Pete Rose, ever-ready to start something, was a chief agitator—either with his bat or his nothing-is-sacred needling.

He had company from sidekick Joe Morgan, whose quips were as quick as his blazing bat. Morgan, when he doesn't have a hand in the hilarity, is busy demoralizing the opposition with his many taunts.

Morgan, a prime contender for the league's Most Valuable Player award, has been described by the Dodgers' Don Sutton as "the wheels of the Big Red Machine."

When he climbs out of his orange movie director's chair, he gets things rolling.

One of the game's most versatile superstars, the 5-foot-7 Californian has some of baseball's best credentials ever for MVP consideration: a career-high .327 batting average, 67 stolen bases, 17 home runs, 132 walks, 107 runs and 94 RBIs.

But he's at his best exchanging barbs with Rose and Co.

Terry Crowley, an American League expatriate, has an explanation for the rambunctious ways of his teammates.

"I saw the same thing at Baltimore. When a lot of guys are having good years the tension goes. Everyone's happy and it becomes a contagious thing. It's molded a real togetherness," said Crowley, a key member of the Reds depth-rich bench.

Charismatic Johnny Bench got the season off to a corkpopping start with his extravagant wedding to New York model Vickie Chesser on the eve of spring training.

The Reds have had a taste for champagne ever since.

Bench, a country-western music lover, was never at a loss for words when the needling started. When Morgan voiced dismay that his batting average was slipping because of little rest, he found a cot, aspirin, a pillow and a some slippers in front of his locker the next day.

Bench and his fellow culprits got the message across.

A key contributor to the runaway was George Foster, the "Ice Cream Man," who superstitiously stopped for an ice cream cone before each home game. "I only went hitless twice, so I guess it worked," said Foster.

Sluggo Tony Perez, the most prolific RBI man in baseball over the past eight years, was no shrinking violet in face of

Joiner sees Bengals as big winners

CINCINNATI (AP) — Veteran wide receiver Charlie Joiner thinks the Cincinnati Bengals are capable of winning the American Football Conference Championship and denies that Sunday's game against his former teammates on the Houston Oilers means anything special.

"Houston is just one of the teams we've got to beat for the championship," Joiner said. "It's just a business."

Joiner alternates with Chip Myers spelling Isaac Curtis as the Bengals manipulate their corps of sticky-fingered pass receivers.

"We've got the experience, the youth, the right ingredients," said the seven-year professional. "It takes believing in the other players, working together and execution. If you put all that together, and keep the injuries down to a minimum, we've got a good shot at it."

Joiner said the league gets "tighter every year. New England can be real tough with Jim Plunkett back at quarterback. You know Buffalo is tough, the Jets look solid, Pittsburgh too. San Diego has a good offensive team. It's the same old thing — on any Sunday anybody can beat anybody."

"We've just got to stick to basic stuff and improve every week. What it's all about is execution. No race is certain for one team."

the barrage of high humor.

His favorite target was roommate Dave Concepcion, the Reds slick fielding shortstop. "Davey is baseball's best 80-game player," teased Perez, referring to Concepcion being prone to injury.

The quiet man is centerfielder Cesar Geronimo. But he stalks the outfield with a deadly grace. He planned to become a Catholic priest in his native Dominican Republic, but baseball beckoned. Blessed with a bazooka arm, Geronimo left the seminary to sign a contract with the New York Yankees, who had plans of converting him to a pitcher.

The pitching staff has its characters too. The Comeback Kid is Gary Nolan, soon to be 27 and the father of four. A self-described "homebody," Nolan, one of three 15-game winners on the team, is a shadow of the pitcher he was in 1972. Arm miseries sidelined him for two seasons, but the savvy and fortitude are still there.

Grambling atop football poll

By The Associated Press
Grambling remains atop The Associated Press college division poll this week, but the Tigers' lead over second-place Western Kentucky slipped to a meager 19 points.

In balloting by a nationwide panel of sportswriters and sportscasters, Grambling 3-0-0, which was idle last week, took 18 first-place votes out of 44 cast and had a total of 357 points. The Hilltoppers of Western Kentucky, a 30-3 winner over Austin Peay, got 11 first-place votes and 338 points.

Boise State, with four votes for No. 1, Texas A&I, with five, and Jackson State, with one, rounded out the top five, just as they did a week ago.

Idaho State and Eastern Kentucky held onto sixth and seventh places, respectively, meaning the top seven teams remained the same this week.

Northern Michigan, a 41-14 winner over Nebraska-Omaha last Saturday, advanced from 11th to eighth, while North Dakota State shot from 15th to ninth on the strength of a 49-7 victory over Morrisdean. Delaware, the only team in the top 10 with a loss, is 10th, down one spot from a week ago.

Rounding out the top 15 are Wittenberg, Henderson State, Montana, Ithaca and Abilene Christian.

Wittenberg slipped from eighth to 11th despite winning, Henderson State slipped from 10th to 12th and Abilene Christian fell from 14th to 15th after a narrow 24-21 loss to fourth-ranked Texas A&I.

Montana and Ithaca are the newcomers to the poll, and both made it on the strength of firstplace votes. Montana got two and Ithaca one to put them ahead of teams which got more votes but fewer points.

Buckeyes lead early stats

CHICAGO (AP)—Ohio State, ranked No. 2 nationally and the only undefeated, untied team in the Big Ten, has a pretty good edge in conference statistics.

The Buckeyes lead in four of eight team categories and are second in two others. The Buckeyes lead in rushing with 317.7 yards a game, in total offense with a 409.7 average, in total defense on a yield of 226 yards a game and in scoring defense with an average of 5.3 points a game.

Michigan leads in rushing defense, yielding 122.7 yards a game but the Buckeyes are only a shade behind with a 122 average. Wisconsin is tops in scoring with 25 points a game and Ohio State is second at 23.3.

Ali pounds Frazier for TKO

MUHAMMAD ALI

MANILA (AP) — It was a great fight, one of the greatest, brutally physical and gutsy. The combatants—the stand-up matador with lightning reflexes and the charging, pursuing bull, his attack unrelenting—gave no quarter.

And at the end of it—after 42 incredible minutes of warfare, of intense battle among two bitter and familiar rivals—there stood Muhammad Ali, undisputed king of all he surveyed in boxing's heavyweight ranks.

The record books will record it simply: Ali over Joe Frazier, TKO, 14th round. But the cold statistics don't pay proper tribute to the durability and refusal to fold on the part of a great champion and the raw courage of the challenger.

"He could have whupped any fighter in the world, except me," a weary Ali said afterward. "He is great—he is greater than I thought. He is one hell of a fighter and it was one hell of a fight."

It was the third meeting between these two powerful black men—the champion out of Louisville, Ky., 33, a man who has been at center stage for 15 years now, and the challenger, 31, out of the Jim Crow South and a one-time slaughterhouse butcher in a Philadelphia ghetto.

Both of the early battles were slugging matches which went the limit—Frazier taking the first in 15 and Ali the second in 12—and this one went through 14 rounds with little to choose between them.

But in the 14th, drawing upon some mysterious source of strength after appearing on his last legs in the fight's middle rounds, Ali jarred Frazier's rock-like head with a sledgehammer right and sent the challenger's knees crumbling with a series of one-two punches to the head.

Before the bell could ring for the final round, Eddie Futch, Frazier's trainer, strode to the middle of the ring and told the Philippine referee, Carlos Padilla, Jr., that his man had had enough.

A loud roar of "Ali, Ali, Ali"—by now a universal chant—went up from the crowd 25,000 in the indoor Philippine Coliseum.

Frazier stood in his corner, a sad sight with a purple bruise under his right eye, a knot on his forehead and blood oozing between his teeth.

"Joe was taking some hard shots to the head and, in his condition, I thought he had no way to win the fight," Futch said afterward. "I didn't want him to get hurt."

Angelo Dundee, who has guided Ali's fortunes through 51 fights, all but two of them victories, said he thought Futch took wise and humane action. "I would have done the same thing," he said.

While handlers cut the gloves from Frazier's wrists and the referee screamed the announcement to the howling crowd, Muhammad Ali, actor, fighter and Muslim preacher, could not resist one final charade.

He took two steps away from his stool and did a swan dive to the blue canvas floor, lying there prone with arms outstretched as if he himself was in a faint.

Farewells set for Casey Stengel

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP) — Befitting his stature of baseball royalty, Casey Stengel will lie in state before burial in this Los Angeles suburb.

Arrangements for Stengel's funeral were completed Tuesday, amid a dramatic avalanche of tributes that continued to flood Glendale for the beloved "Old Preffesser" who died early Tuesday morning of cancer.

Often acclaimed as baseball's No. 1 goodwill ambassador, the colorful Stengel died at the age of 85 after an exquisitely rich career.

Funeral services for the Hall of Fame player and managerial great will be held next Monday at 1 p.m., PDT, at the Church of the Recessional in Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Glendale.

Stengel requested before his death that in lieu of flowers charitable donations in his name could be made to the Association of Professional Baseball Players of America, 630 E. Wardlow Road, Long Beach, Calif. The association is a benefit group helping men formerly associated with baseball.

Stengel's body will lie in state on Sunday from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. at Scovern Mortuary in Glendale. Stengel is survived by his wife, Edna.

Among the host of eulogies for Stengel were tributes from high baseball officials, managers, players past and present and politicians, as well as close friends.

Jocko Conlan, the Hall of Fame umpire and longtime friend of the princely Stengel, commented: "He was not only colorful, but I think he and Babe Ruth have done more for baseball than anyone else."

Conlan, who played for baseball's grand old man at Toledo in 1930, added:

Among the officials who eulogized the onetime record-maker of the New York Yankees was Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. He acclaimed him a bona fide national hero.

"There has never been anyone like him," Kuhn said. "Casey was irrepresibly himself. But Casey left a nation that adored him and a host of memories so vivid and marvelous that we really can't ever lose him."

Nicklaus, Miller in confrontation

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — The last of the year's lop-sided series of Jack Nicklaus-Johnny Miller confrontations begins Thursday with Miller hoping to salvage a little personal pride from what has become a very long season.

Miller, buoyed by his recordsetting exploits in the Arizona desert, won three of his first four starts of the year. He's collected $191,118 in official winnings. But he hasn't won in eight months.

And, perhaps more importantly, he hasn't beaten Nicklaus all season.

They've played in the same tournament on 12 occasions. They tied for third in the British Open, tied for sixth in the Crosby and tied for fourth in Atlanta. Nicklaus has finished ahead of Johnny in all the others.

Their meeting in the $175,000 Kaiser International Open beginning Thursday will be their last of the year. Nicklaus won't play in this country again until 1976.

He's already clinched his seventh money-winning title with an unbeatable $291,849 already in the bank. His five victories, including the Masters and PGA, make him an almost certain choice for his fourth Player of the Year award.

There's nothing Johnny can do about those statistics. But he could make up a lot of lost ground in a successful defense of what was his eighth title of 1974. And he's on his home grounds. His home is behind the 10th green on the north course, one of two layouts that will be used for the first two days of this tournament on the Silverado Country Club.

But he may have a problem.

A chronic ailment in his left wrist prompted him to skip the Tournament Players Championship. He played only three of a possible six matches in the Ryder Cup, his last start.

"I hope it'll be okay. I've been resting it for more than a week now. Maybe it'll be alright," Miller said.

While the Miller-Nicklaus match-up is expected to draw the bulk of the attention, the overall field is the strongest in this tournament's history.

Among the other standouts are Tom Watson, winner of the British Open and two other crowns this year, Lee Trevino, Gene Littler, Al Geiberger and John Mahaffey, who has advanced to eighth place on the money-winning list without winning a tournament.

Other 1975 tournament winners in the 156 man field are Don Bies, Art Wall, Larry Ziegler, Jerry McGee, Tom Jenkins, Don Iverson and Dave Hill, who took the Sahara title last weekend.

Lion linksters lose to Eagles

For the second time this season Madison Plains has beaten Washington C.H. by two strokes in South Central Ohio League golf play.

Playing at Locust Hills Golf Club Monday, the Madison Plains team handed the Blue Lion linksters a 167-169 loss.

John Moore was low man for Washington C.H. with a 41. He was followed closely by Gary Fisher and fifth-man Greg Tillett with 42's. Scott Sefton made up the rest of the foursome with a 44.

Two Madison Plains golfers took medalist honors with 40's.

The loss left Washington Senior High School's sophomore laden team with a 1-8 season record while Madison Plains upped its mark to 5-4.

The Blue Lions will play Greenfield Wednesday afternoon at the Washington Country Club.

Nolan Cromwell AP Back of the Week

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — When Kansas Coach Bud Moore announced last spring that starting free safety Nolan Cromwell would be shifted to quarterback, more than a few eyebrows were raised.

Cromwell answered those questions and more last Saturday when he romped for 294 yards on 28 carries in leading Kansas to a 20-0 victory over Oregon State.

Cromwell's performance set a National Collegiate Athletic Association record for singlegame rushing by a quarterback, broke running back Gale Sayers' single-game Jayhawk rushing record and won the young quarterback Associated Press award as National College Back of the Week.

CLEAN, NEAT, TRIM
That's what you will see when you inspect this extra nice three bedroom, one-floor plan home, only three blocks from uptown, here in Washington C.H. Besides three bedrooms, you will also appreciate the small office, the very modern bath and the extra large kitchen. There is also a utility room with washer and dryer hookup. If you're not overly fond of mowing the yard, you will really appreciate the small yard, the time you save can be better spent fishing, golfing or loafing. Most of this home is carpeted and very well decorated. There is a like-new gas-fired hot water furnace, and you'll find everything to be in tip top condition. The price . . . a modest $17,500. The number of bank failures mounted steeply during the great Depression. On March 4, 1933, the morning of Roosevelt's inauguration as President, states had closed most of their banks. On March 6, FDR declared a national bank holiday for four days. By Congressional action within two months more than 12,000 banks, with 90 per cent of the country's bank deposits, were back in action.

Watch Canned Food Shelf Time

A friend of mine keeps canned food and freeze-dried food on the shelf for terribly long periods of time. Does the food value change after so many months, sometimes over a year?

Mrs. T.S., S.D.

Dear Mrs. S.:

Dr. Herman Dillon, of the Department of Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association, says that "vitamin losses during storage of canned or dried food may vary widely, depending on the freshness of the product at the time it was purchased, the type of package, and the temperature of the storage area."

"Unopened canned foods, whether in tin cans or glass jars, should be stored below 70 degrees F., to maintain vitamin C and (vitamin B 1)."

It seems hardly necessary, with modern distribution systems, to keep any canned food for inordinately long periods of time. They don't mellow with age, but rather can be harmed by rust, punctures or bulges.

My husband is the typical, terrible-tempered tiger. He has high blood pressure. I am sure that when he blows off steam, his blood pressure goes way up. Do you agree?

Mrs. J.Y., Mich.

Dear Mrs. Y.:

There is undeniable evidence that rage, emotional stress, anxiety and tension affect the blood pressure.

Sometimes the rise in blood pressure may be just as transient as the period of anger.

But there are physiological changes that occur in the blood vessels with anxiety and rage. There is a specialized nervous system, called the "sympathetic," which can narrow the blood vessels under emotional stress.

This leads to a complicated method by which the blood pressure is elevated.

You are entirely correct in your belief that there is a relationship between your husband's behavior pattern and his high blood pressure.

This should be corrected, perhaps by psychological guidance. These transient episodes of high blood pressure may become permanently fixed.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism - A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers helpful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 578, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

Opening lead - six of diamonds.

Most of the hands you read about feature good play by declarer, but the defenders have their innings also. Here is a case where the defense acquitted itself nobly. The deal was played in a match-point pair championship.

West led a diamond, won in dummy with the queen. In an effort to score as many tricks as possible, South attacked clubs, leading the ace and then the jack. This method of play would have been successful had the clubs been divided 2-2 or had either opponent held a singleton honor (about a 65 per cent combined chance).

East won the jack with the queen, on which West discarded a diamond to discourage a diamond return! East therefore shifted to the six of hearts, won by West with the queen, and West continued with a heart, forcing out the ace.

His weak spot having been discovered, South now had no chance for the contract unless he could bring home dummy's spades. Accordingly, he led the nine of spades, planning to follow low from dummy and continue with the ten to dummy's jack if the nine held the trick.

Declarer's plan was both sound and clever and would surely have achieved the desired effect, except that West very smartly covered South's nine with his queen and in that way prevented declarer from scoring five spade tricks.

West's unusual queen-play knocked declarer clear out of the box. He could not afford to duck the queen because the defenders would run their hearts against him. So South went up with the ace of spades and continued with the K-J, hoping to find a 3-3 division. When this failed to materialize, declarer could do no better than cash his eight tricks and concede down one.

CHRISTMAS IS JUST AROUND THE CORNER — That's for sure! There are constant reminders in the stores with their displays of winter clothing and the post office too is telling people to mail gifts and send Christmas cards as early as possible this year. A good place to buy those cards is from the Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society because the money made from the sales will go into the society for its operation and cancer research. Representatives Mrs. Ralph Hyer (335-1556), left, and Mrs. Loren Noble (335-6069), right, have some six catalogues, one of which contains the right card for you this Christmas. Give them a call and they will see you get a chance to leaf through the order books. You can also contact the local cancer society at 335-3540. Try to do so before Nov. 15 so your cards won't be late.

Medicare cost rise seen in '76

WASHINGTON (AP) — Persons hospitalized under the federal Medicare program will be required next year to pay at least the first $104 of their medical bills, up from the present $92, the government says.

The Social Security Administration, blaming hospital costs that are rising 50 per cent faster than the cost-of-living, announced Tuesday it will shift to a new schedule of higher rates for most services starting Jan. 1, 1976.

The out-of-pocket charge for the average hospital stay will be raised 13 per cent from the current $92, the agency said.

The new amount is equivalent to the average cost of one day of hospitalization, Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell said. The average Medicare stay now is about 13½ days and costs $1,400.

The new rates also mean Medicare patients will pay additional costs of $3 a day for extended hospital stays and $1.50 daily for long-term post-hospitalization nursing home care.

Of the 24.1 million people receiving Medicare coverage, 22 million are aged 65 and over and 2.1 million are disabled.

Beginning next year, Medicare beneficiaries who stay in the hospital more than 60 days will pay $26 daily for the 61st through the 90th day. Currently they are charged $23 a day.

Police charge three drivers

Three drivers were cited for traffic infractions when they became involved in accidents within Washington C.H., according to city police. Officers also checked a hit-skip mishap.

A car driven by Ronald B. Johnson, 43, of 714 S. Fayette St., and a truck driven by James S. Holbrook, 24, of 205 Grand Ave., collided at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday at the intersection of S. Fayette and Broadway streets. Johnson was charged by police with failure to yield right of way.

A car driven by Kenneth H. Browning Jr., 27, of 1510 North St., struck a fence belonging to C.L. Lewellen, at the rear of his 322 East St. residence at 6:40 p.m. Tuesday. Browning was cited by police for driving while intoxicated and reckless operation.

A car door on a car belonging to Allen H. Norris, Columbus, was struck by a semi-trailer rig on W. Court Street near the Hinde Street intersection at 1:43 p.m. Tuesday. Police stated the door was open on the Norris vehicle and the semi drove off after the accident.

An accident at the intersection of Court and North streets at 1:16 p.m. Tuesday involved cars driven by Roberta M. Davis, 19, Groveport, and Jack E. Armstrong, 53, of 121 W. Temple St. Police charged Armstrong with failure to yield right of way and estimated both vehicles as moderately damaged.

Police report three thefts

Items were stolen from a Washington C.H. man's truck, city police reported today along with a stolen wallet and a bicycle larceny.

Four eight-track tapes, a carton and a half of cigarettes, a jacket and a hooded sweatshirt were stolen from a truck belonging to Virgil R. Scott, 213 Sycamore St. while the vehicle was parked in front of the Huntington Bank on E. Court Street from 10 p.m. through 11:45 p.m. Tuesday. Police are investigating.

A wallet containing an unknown amount of money was removed from a purse belonging to Mrs. Robert Bennett, 624 N. Oakland Ave., sometime Tuesday afternoon while the purse was under the counter at the Soldan's store on E. Court Street, police reported.

A 26-inch girls' bicycle belonging to Jo Ann Brickles, 311 McElwain St., was taken from the front of Revco discount drugstore, Washington Square Shopping Center, at 3 p.m. Sunday. Police are seeking the thief.

Arrests

SHERIFF

TUESDAY — Michael W. Detillion, 20, Jeffersonville, speeding and driving while under license suspension.

POLICE

TUESDAY — John V. Dilley Jr., 17, of 836 Maple St., reckless operation.
